Introduction

The academic program review process is intended to provide faculty and academic administrators with information to identify program strengths and weaknesses. This information should play a major role in helping faculty to define initiatives, improve quality, and justify needed resources. Program review is perhaps the most essential component in academic planning.

What's the purpose?

In conducting the program review, the department will generate important information needed for academic planning within the department. Curriculum revision, proposals for new programs, staffing needs, and budget priorities should be supported by information identified through the self-study process. The Office of Accreditation and Assessment (OAA) works closely with academic Deans and Department Heads to coordinate the program review process on the UTC campus. OAA will support each department undergoing program review by providing guidance and information during the self-study.

Questions?

Each section within this packet includes useful information that will guide departments under review through the program review process. Please refer to this packet often to ensure you are meeting the necessary deadlines and including the essential information. Should you have any questions along the way, please contact your OAA program review liaison, Cindy Williamson (ext. 4288 or Cynthia-Williamson@utc.edu), Director of Accreditation and Assessment. If she is unavailable and you need immediate assistance, please contact April Matthews (ext. 5684 or April-Matthews@utc.edu), Outcome Assessment Management Analyst.

Activity Details

All documents will be submitted electronically

STEP 1: Meet with OAA staff to discuss academic program review process

The Department Head and any other representatives who have been selected will have a meeting with the Director of Accreditation and Assessment and Outcomes Assessment Management Analyst from OAA. You will be contacted by OAA to schedule this meeting.

STEP 2: Assign self-study responsibilities

A critical decision in ensuring the success of the self-study process is selecting self-study team members. The Department Head and Dean should select the self-study team, whose responsibilities will include conducting evaluation activities, analyzing data, and writing the report. In some cases, a department may assign primary responsibility to one faculty member. In others, a department may assign its entire faculty to designated review responsibilities. This decision is best made by individual departments, considering faculty skills, interests, and workloads. Departments are encouraged to include students in the self-study process and may include them as members of a departmental team. OAA will work with those responsible for the self-study to provide data, assist with interpretation of guidelines, and offer staff support.

STEP 3: Review data from OAA

OAA will provide departments with a Program Overview document, which contains considerable information to assist in conducting and supporting the self-study. This information consists of data related to students, curriculum, faculty, diversity, and resources.

STEP 4: Meet with OAA staff to discuss academic program review process (if needed)

Meeting with OAA usually happens in the spring semester prior to beginning the self-study. If an additional meeting is needed, please reach out to OAA.

STEP 5: Submit nominees for external reviewers

Each program under review must have one external reviewer. The reviewer must be employed outside the State of Tennessee, must have current or prior experience at the level of Department Chair or higher at a peer or aspirational peer institution to UTC, be employed at the level of full professor, and should have prior experience relevant to the program review process. Their experiences should enable them to make judgments and recommendations about the quality of UTC programs compared to the “best practice” standards at comparable institutions (see External Reviewer Selection Criteria). After consultation with and approval from the Dean, the department should make sure their top candidate is willing and available to serve in the role within the necessary timeframe. Then, submit at least three external reviewer nominees (along with information on their credentials), in order of preference, to OAA for qualification verification. Once qualifications have been verified, OAA will submit the nominees to the Provost for approval. Please make sure that the reviewer is approved by the Dean and Provost before officially inviting the reviewer for a virtual visit. SUBMIT THIS ELECTRONICALLY

STEP 6: Conduct self-study and prepare report

The self-study report is the basis for the entire program review process, so this document must be accurate, complete, and well written. It is important that the report address all the questions detailed in the Self-Study Guidelines unless they are clearly not applicable. It also is important that objective data be presented and cited in the report to justify conclusions and recommendations. Each section of the report should conclude with an assessment of strengths and weaknesses and include recommendations for change, if needed. If the report is written by several faculty members, one person will need to integrate the individual sections into a composite report that is consistent in format, style, etc. It will be helpful to review the Program Review Rubric while writing the self-study to ensure that all of the items are addressed.

STEP 7: Submit initial draft of self-study report

The Department Head submits the initial draft to OAA. OAA will review the draft for completeness and will then offer advice to the department regarding the report's completeness, accuracy, and style. After receiving input from OAA, the department will be ready to prepare its final draft. This draft should represent a consensus of the faculty, and agreement among the Department Head, Dean, and OAA. SUBMIT THIS ELECTRONICALLY

STEP 8: Submit final version of self-study report

After completing the revision process, the Department Head should send a pdf of the final self-study, including appendices, to the Provost, the Dean, and OAA. Along with the self-study, send the reviewer's rubric to the Provost and the Dean so they can see the specific criteria under review.

SUBMIT THIS ELECTRONICALLY

STEP 9: Schedule and make arrangements for external reviewer site visit

After the Dean and Provost approve the external reviewer, the department is ready to schedule and make arrangements for the site visit. Send the reviewer the Letter of Agreement and after it is returned send a copy of it to the Director of Accreditation and Assessment and the Outcomes Assessment Management Analyst in OAA. SUBMIT THIS ELECTRONICALLY External reviewers should plan to be on campus at least two full days, if you are considering a virtual visit please refer to the virtual visit program packet. UTC will allocate $2,200 for the site visit, which typically is used to cover travel, lodging, meal expenses, and an honorarium for the external reviewer.

The department is responsible for sending the external reviewer the self-study document, supporting materials, THEC Rubric, and guidelines for the external reviewer's report at least two weeks prior to the scheduled on-site visit. The department is also responsible for handling logistical plans/issues for the reviewer while on campus (transportation, parking, access to computer, etc.).

STEP 10: Distribution of materials

Two weeks prior to the scheduled on-site visit send the final agenda and the final draft of the self-study to all members participating in the review, and if not already done, send to the Provost, the Dean, and OAA.

STEP 11: Conduct external reviewer site visit

During the site visit, the reviewer should be scheduled for interviews with the Department Head, the college Dean, the Provost, Vice Provosts (as needed), the Dean of the Library, and the Director of Accreditation and Assessment. External Reviewer should also meet with departmental faculty, students, and alumni. The reviewer must have sufficient time to review records verifying information included in the self-study report. The exit interviews will be oral reports summarizing the reviewer's judgments regarding the department's compliance with THEC criteria and advice for the department's future directions.

STEP 12: External Reviewer submits completed Rubric to Department Head and Director of Accreditation and Assessment in OAA

Before leaving campus, the external reviewer must (1) complete and submit the program review Rubric required by THEC, and (2) participate in exit interviews with department faculty, Academic Affairs administrators (Provost or Provost designee), and the Director of Accreditation and Assessment.

SUBMIT THIS ELECTRONICALLY

STEP 13: External Reviewer submits completed final narrative report to Department Head and Director of Accreditation and Assessment in OAA

Within two weeks of the site visit, the external reviewer must complete a brief narrative report and submit the report to both the Department Head and OAA. SUBMIT THIS ELECTRONICALLY

STEP 14: Department submits transfer voucher

After the reviewer's narrative report is received the department will submit a transfer voucher to OAA for the reimbursable costs outlined on page 25.

STEP 15: Department develops a plan to address recommendations of reviewer and self-study

After the narrative report is received, the department should review the self-study, the report, and recommendations and develop a plan to monitor and address those recommendations over the next five years.

STEP 16: Implement plan to address recommendations of reviewer and self-study as a part of the ongoing institutional effectiveness process

The improvement plan can be incorporated as part of the ongoing outcomes assessment/institutional effectiveness plans that are due from departments in September of each year. Departments should plan assessment strategies that will allow them to evaluate the recommended approaches on an ongoing basis using both direct (comprehensive exam, licensure exam, portfolio, rubric, thesis, etc.) and indirect measures (grades, surveys, count, etc.).

Self-study Guidelines

The end product of the self-study process will be a program report that addresses, at minimum, the items in the THEC Quality Assurance Funding Rubric. This Rubric will be used by the external reviewer who is selected to review the program. Addressing each of the sections in the report ensures that departments cover all necessary topics and allows the reviewer to find pertinent program information more easily.

The following pages include:

1. The THEC Rubric that will be used by the external reviewer during his/her site visit to campus
2. Details on the structure and content of the program self-study report

Please consider the THEC Rubric and the self-study narrative guidelines while preparing your program's self-study document. Referencing these guidelines frequently will ensure that the report is comprehensive and will minimize any revisions that need to be made.

Instruction for External Reviewer(s)

In accordance with the 2020-25 Quality Assurance Program Funding guidelines of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission (THEC), each non-accreditable baccalaureate program undergoes either an academic audit or external peer review according to a pre-approved review cycle.

The criteria used to evaluate a program appear in the following Program Review Rubric. The Program Review Rubric lists 30 criteria grouped into six categories. THEC will use these criteria to assess standards and distribute points to baccalaureate programs. The four criteria noted with an asterisk are excluded from the point calculation but will be used by the institution in their overall assessment.

For each criterion within a standard, the responsible program has provided evidence in the form of a Self Study. Supporting documents will be available for review as specified in the Self Study. As the external reviewer, you should evaluate this evidence and any other evidence observed during the site visit to determine whether each criterion within a standard has been met. A checkmark should be placed in the appropriate box to indicate whether the program currently exhibits poor, fair, good or excellent in meeting the criterion. If a particular criterion is inappropriate or not applicable to the program under review, the item should be marked NA.

This evaluation becomes a part of the record of the academic program review. The rubric will be shared with the department, college and central administration, as well as the Tennessee Higher Education Commission. When combined with the written report, prepared by the entire program review committee, the Program Review Rubric will facilitate development of a program action plan to ensure continuous quality improvement.

Your judgment of the criteria will be used in allocating state funds for the university's budget.
